MESSAGE FROM CEO

Dear Friends,

As many of you will already know, one in four ethnic minority families lived in poverty pre-COVID-19. Since the onset of COVID-19 in 2020, the situation has worsened. With layoffs continuing in 2021 in catering and construction and jobs at the airport showing no sign of returning, the situation for many is dire. Families have been stuck in cramped subdivided homes with children trying to learn online and unemployed adults under stress. We have seen the direct link between economy and well-being and the significant impact of this in many areas of our work.

2021 was a busy year for our outreach work, and we impacted the lives of 20,000 women, men, and children. In this report, you will find details of our impact by project type in the broad areas of women and girls, providing opportunities, parents, mental health, emergency relief, and systemic changes. You will also find details of our financials.

As I write this note, it would be remiss of me not to raise my concern for the future of the ethnic minority population in Hong Kong. I am most concerned about women and children, and mental health. We have seen a rise in women seeking legal assistance because of domestic abuse. We have witnessed the strain on children from hunger, poverty, and prolonged school closures, particularly on depression and anxiety levels. Many children are simply unable to learn at home, crammed into small spaces with so many people. Will these children ever catch up?

In the general community, we have sadly witnessed an increase in discrimination against ethnic minorities. COVID-19 has accentuated the stereotype that South Asians are “dirty”, and this is having a direct impact on the lack of availability of rental accommodation for many ethnic minority families.

Our work over the last year has been made possible because of you. Whether you are a donor, a staff member or volunteer, a partner organisation, or one of our committee members, I thank you for your support. I hope that we can continue to count on you so we may serve the most vulnerable men, women, and children of Hong Kong.

With blessings and gratitude,

Shalini Mahtani, MBE
Founder and CEO

2021 IMPACT HIGHLIGHTS

The Zubin Foundation directly impacted the lives of 8,912 ethnic minority individuals through our outreach work. Our work on systemic change impacted 1,191 individuals. These numbers are conservative and do not include the impact on direct family members and the thousands who benefitted from our information sharing on jobs, opportunities and COVID-19. At a minimum, we impacted at least 20,000 lives in 2021.

WOMEN AND GIRLS

Women and girls are among the most marginalised in the ethnic minority community. They tend to be less educated than their male counterparts and many feel isolated.

CALL MIRA Helpline for Women and Girls in Crisis

In its 4th year, Call Mira is the only helpline for ethnic minority women and girls. It operates in Hindi, Urdu and English from Monday to Friday (10.00am to 4.00pm). Call Mira works in collaboration with legal leads, shelter homes, government services and other NGOs.

PROVIDING OPPORTUNITIES

One in four ethnic minority families live in poverty. With increased unemployment in catering, construction and the airport, the working poor have become poorer. The Zubin Foundation believes the best way out of poverty is through gainful education and employment.

APP AND WEB PORTAL

The Zubin Foundation together with our partners in the private sector, developed the Opportunity Bank app - available for free to download on iOS and Android - and the web portal. The aim of Opportunity Bank is to provide ethnic minorities in Hong Kong with an easy-to-access platform for jobs, training, welfare schemes in Hong Kong, and general COVID-19 related information.

Opportunity Bank received the Certificate of Merit in the Hong Kong ICT Award 2021 in the Smart People (Smart Inclusion) Category.

The Zubin Foundation Internship Programme enabled Clement Shield Group to commit further to its policy of inclusivity in the workplace. The experience once again proved the value of engaging young, enthusiastic and socially responsible members of the non-ethnic Chinese community. From an organisational standpoint, the pre-existing staff in Clement Shield gained both tangible and intangible benefits from the interaction and look forward to further rounds of engagement via such programmes.

-David Neil Bennett, Deputy General Manager, Clement Shield Group

INTERNATIONAL AND PRIVATE SCHOOLS

Scholarship Fair

Many ethnic minorities struggle to learn Cantonese in public secondary schools and they lack the support from school and home to improve. At international and private schools the language of instruction is English and it is therefore much easier for non-Chinese speaking population. This fair seeks to encourage international and private schools to give financial scholarships to ethnic minorities in need.

PARENTS

The average size of the ethnic minority family is much larger than the average size of a Hong Kong Chinese family. It is not uncommon for families we serve to have 5 or more children. Coupled with these larger family sizes, many in the community, particularly mothers, lack formal education.

WORKSHOPS AND SUPPORT GROUPS

With the growing population of ethnic minorities who attend public schools, we are invited by them to provide parenting workshops in English, Nepali, Hindi and Urdu to parents of ethnic minority children in those schools. In addition, we also provide ongoing emotional support to low-income families, particularly mothers, through support groups.

MENTAL HEALTH

There has been a decline in the mental health of many in the community, because of COVID-19. Many have lost jobs. Furthermore, with school closures, many of our children are cramped into sub-divided flats of 150-200 sq.ft. The mental health of adults and children continues to diminish.

ETHNIC MINORITY WELL-BEING CENTRE For Adults

The Ethnic Minority Well-Being Centre is the only provider of one-to-one free counselling services for low-income individuals who suffer from depression, anxiety, and stress. Counselling is provided by professionals, in English, Hindi, Urdu and Nepali. The University of Hong Kong, through the Department of Psychiatry is independently conducting research to validate the impact of our counselling on the mental health of our service recipients.

The counselling has brought a great change in the way I think and live. I have learnt to focus on solutions instead of (the) problems, understand myself better as well as present my feelings and thoughts in healthier manner. Counselling has taught me to let go of some of the things and thinking that it's not end of the world. I hope to pass what I have learnt in these sessions to my kids. I really value the free counselling service.

It has been a pleasure to be a part of the advisory committee of The Zubin Foundation's Ethnic Minority Well-Being Centre and be able to support their work in providing therapies and interventions to people from minorities in their preferred languages. It is essential that people get the services they need and The Zubin Foundation is best placed to provide these in the third sector.

As a Hong Kong Chinese person who attended one of the best local girls' schools, race discrimination in our city was not an issue I had to worry about. Two years ago, I started to date an Indian man and have since opened my eyes to rampant racial discrimination against dark-skinned people. Companies need to invest in ensuring their staff and industries understand the racism that prevails in our community and take steps to become better allies.

ZUBIN CRACKERS FOR SOCIAL GOOD

Raising Awareness

The Zubin Crackers was an awareness building and fundraising campaign. The crackers were developed by diverse students from public and international schools who learnt about business and sustainability. The crackers were made in Hong Kong, providing employment to 4 ethnic minorities. A total of 30,000 crackers were sold in Hong Kong generating a revenue of over HK$550K towards setting up of a special education needs centre for ethnic minority children in 2022. The crackers helped us raise awareness of the status of Hong Kong's ethnic minority community in the media.

TESTIMONIALS

Call Mira has been my lifeline. I first called in August 2021 because I was very lonely. Both my husband and I have disabilities and live in public housing. We have no family in Hong Kong. Thanks to The Zubin Foundation we were provided with food and more importantly friendship and love.

The Irish Business community were honoured to partner with The Zubin Foundation in the design and delivery of the Social Entrepreneur Academy (SEA) program. The program exposed teenagers to practical innovation and business skills to make a difference in their communities through social entrepreneurship. One of the program's highlights was the engagement and exposure of the exceptional talent within the ethnic minority participants; they blossomed more and more as the program progressed. It became evident that we were witnessing the birth of some next-generation experts and leaders.

The Department of Psychiatry at HKU commends The Zubin Foundation for its dedication and efforts in providing counselling services in Hindi, Urdu, Nepali and English to bridge the mental health service utilisation among ethnic minorities due to language barriers and stigma. We are pleased to participate in the Ethnic Minority Well-Being Centre by providing research and evaluation consultation

- Yi Nam Suen, Research Assistant Professor, The University of Hong Kong

“

I have been a legal lead for Call Mira since May 2018 when the dedicated hotline for ethnic minority (EM) women and girls first launched. The situations EM women and girls face in Hong Kong can be complicated and are closely intertwined with culture, religion, immigration and financial issues. These factors often create numerous challenges in various aspects of their lives. I am humbled to be a part of Call Mira, where we do our best to advise and direct resources to those in need to help them avert crises and ensure their safety and wellbeing. It is a vital platform to reach this group.
